Author Ilsa Bettina Hunger to Discuss Her Book Searching the Ruins: a Memoir

New Braunfels, TX - On Sunday, March 15th, at 2:00 p.m., I.B. Hunger will present a talk at the New Braunfels Public Library on her new book, Searching the Ruins: a Memoir (2014).

Born in 1938, she lived with her family in Dresden, Germany, when World War II began. She was an ordinary girl who lived through an extraordinary time and her book captures the chaos and instability of war from the perspective of a child. Her family fled East Germany, lived in a refugee camp, and broke under the stress of war-torn Germany.

Hunger is a naturalized U.S. citizen who has lived in the United States for over 50 years. A retired teacher, she strives to preserve the best of her German heritage.

“I. B. Hunger’s presentation promises to be an interesting look at an important period, and we are grateful to her for sharing it with us,” says Gretchen Pruett, Library Director.
